7. System Description & Operation

- The System consists of detection / discharge tubing, valve assembly and agent cylinder as system component. It is self- contained system, meaning is that it is equipped with its own automatic detection system, which when actuated, automatically discharges the contents on hazard area.
- This pre-engineered system minimizes the amount of engineering involved in the system design. Discharge tubing length is calculated based on size, volume of panel, no hydraulic calculations are required to determine pressure drop, agent flow or discharge time.
- The System provide automatic actuation. No electric or manual actuation is provided.
- OPERATION: When melting temperature of detection tubing reaches, it ruptures the detection tubing and forming nozzle at rupture point, allow agent to flow through, distributing pressurized clean agent into the hazard area.
- HFC 236fa extinguishes fire by absorbing heat from hazard location. This system is effective for class A, Class B and Class C type of fire.
- HFC 236fa is clean and leave no residue after discharge, thereby minimizing after cleaning up and expensive downtime. Components of the protected area (any material, metallic or non-metallic) are unaffected by exposure to HFC236fa. The agent is environmental friendly and having zero ODP.
- Polyamide tube acts as a detection device
- Distance between polyamide tube shall be maintained as per fire- prone area inside the panel

- The system shall be simple, self-detecting and activating system, specifically designed for closed panel to detect automatically and extinguish fire.
- It should be suitable for application where the potential fire risk is located within an enclosed or confined space.
- The system shall be designed by expert design cell and installed by expert team after an assessment of location and risk. The most suitable option can be installed based on assessment and requirement of the location/hazard.
- The System shall work on mini suppression principle, apply an extinguishing agent to a three-dimensional enclosed space in order to achieve a concentration of the agent (volume percent of the agent in air) adequate to extinguish the fire. The system shall operate automatically by detection.
- System shall work on a local application principle, apply an extinguishing agent directly onto a fire (usually a two-dimensional area), or into the three-dimensional region immediately surrounding the substance or object on fire.

8. Material & Equipment Technical Details

i. Clean Agent – The extinguishing agent shall be UL approved Hexa- fluoro-propane, synonyms are HFC236fa, designed for fire extinguishing, suppression and prevention agent for use in portable extinguisher or total flooding systems. However, CO₂ gas shall not be used as it is not clean agent

Pressure is NO-NC type and provide potentially free contact which will be used for hooter activation or sending signal to GSM dialler for activation. It is directly connected to pressure port of the cylinder valve. Pressure switch is used to monitor the system pressure, system actuation and to energize and de-energize electrically operated equipment.

v. Hooter - The Hooters shall be designed to provide audio-visual alarms when System will discharge the content from the container. Hooter shall be UL approved
